

ABSTRACT

The contactless IC card, the responding method, and the program that control the collision of response to the minimum, wherein the response judgment unit judges whether there is an initial response of 5 the other contactless IC card at a specific time, and the response slot changing unit change the specific time based on the judgment result of the response judgment unit.